THE FRENCH HERO HONORED IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

EONG AND STORY HEARD THROUGHOUT THE LAND-DAUGHTERS OF 1812 CELEBRATE AT THEIR ANNUAL MEETING.

As outlined in The Tribune yesterday, Lafayette Day was celebrated with song and story in almost every school in the city, including the universities. lieges, public, private and parachial schools.

The programme presented in the different schools varied according to the age of the pupils and the predilections of the teachers who prepared them; but in nearly every instance the fresh young voices joined with a will in "America." "The Star Spangled Banner" and "The Red. White and Then followed in nearly every case an explanation by the teachers of the purpose of the obervance of the day an essay on Lafavette, or what a young man of ninetcen did for a people struggling for liberty; essays on the friendship existing between Washington and Lafayette, and Ig one school every pupil presented briefly some fact about the French hero. In others gray-haired visitors, who vividly recalled the excitement attendant upon Lafayette's triumphal progress through the United States in 1824, detailed special incidents of that memorable occasion that riveted the closest attention of the audience. In one of the schools the story of his landing in New York, taken from a chronicler of the times, was given by a young girl whose grandfather was one of the members of the Society of the Cincinnati who met him. "Lafayette landed," she said, "on Staten Island on August 15. On the day following a fleet of steamboats went down to the Island to convey and escort him to the city, including the war steamer Robert Fulton, and on board of these were over six thousand persons, besides the com mittee of the corporation members of the Society of the Cincinnati, Revolutionary officers and soldiers, a deputation from West Point and many other distinguished guests.

'New-York Bay never presented a more magnificent spectacle than on this occasion. The ship-ping was liberally decorated with flags and The day was delightful, and the surface of the water was dotted with every imaginable description of craft in holiday array. Continual salutes of artillery rolled out their deep bass notes On shore hundreds of bells were ringing, and the very air seemed vocal with the music of welcome. As the fleet arrived off the Battery the scene was most impressive. The military, formed in line were over three thousand in number, and as the hero landed he was received with a salute of jacent streets and avenues. After a review of the troops he proceeded to the City Hall in a barouche drawn by four white horses and escorted by a troop of horse and a long line of citizen soldiery.

come a great reception followed. Lafnyette re-ceived the parting salute of the military, and was then escorted to the City Hotel, where a suite of apartments had been prepared for him. His landing at New-York took place on Monday, and on that and the three following days the city was most extravagant kind."

In another school two pictures of the battleground at Yorktown were graphically presented. The first portrayed the day of the surrender, when the captive Eritish Army marched out with shoul-dered arms, colors cased and drums heating a slow British march, stopping at the command, "Ground arms!" to sullenly divest theraselves of their accourrements before the gaze of the assembled French and American soldiers. The second showed the field as it appeared in 1824, when a triumphal arch bearing the names of Lafayette, Hamilton and ceremonies. Again the field was converted into ton and many others who saw service in the Revo was attempted, the associations admitting no emwas attempted, the associations admitting no embelishment.

The day was observed at Columbia University by a lecture at 2.50 e'clock in the Schermerhorn. Building by Professor J. H. Robinson, of the chair of history. Professor Robinson said it is not generally known that the Marquis de Lafavette got his crisinal intention of aiding the American colonisis from the Duke of Gloucester, the brother of George III. Lafayette at eighteen attended a dinner at Metz, at which the Duke was the principal guest. The Duke, who often criticised his brother's policies, spoke hitterly of the taxation of the colonists and armised Lafayette, who was much interested in the question. After the dinner Lafayette and the Duke had a long conversation about the affairs of the colonists. From that time Lafayette wanted to ald the Americans, but he was deterred for three years by his family. At last, at the age of twentyone, he came here to make the splendid record he did.

one, he came here to make the splendid record he did.

Colonel W. D'H. Washington, vice-president of the Lafayette Soriety of France and the United States, cabled to the diners at the inaugural dimer of the society yesterday at the Hotel Continental, Paris, the following:

"Many patriotic societies in America send fraternal greetings. Vive Lafayette."

The purpose of the Lafayette Commission was to have a collection taken up in the schools of this State, but Superintendent Skinner, as stated yesterday, refused to allow either a collection or an entertainment to which an admission fee was to be charged. But New-York was not alone in her celebration of Lafayette Day. From Maine to California and from the Guif to the Great Lakes to school was so small, no scholar so humble, that the great wave of patriotism did not reach them. In nearly all of these schools, as also in the parochial schools throughout the country, the suggestion of the Commissioner of the United States to the Paris Exposition was acted upon, and a collection was taken or an admission was charged.

From this time on, it is rafe to say, Marie Jean Paul Roch Vees Gilbert Motler, the Marquis de Lafayette, will be to the children a hero who "though dead yet speaketh."

THE STATE MEDICAL CONVENTION.

A MEMBER CONDEMNS THE DISPENSARY SYSTEM

At the second day's session of the fifteenth an-nual meeting of the New-York State Medical Association yesterday in the Mott Memorial Hall, No. Dr. Wickes Washburn read sible for the increase of pauperism. Statistics from the Controller's office show that now nearly four the Controller's office show that now nearly four times as much is spent per capita per year than was formerly done in the care of poupers. If we could trace the history of our dispensary patients, we should find in many cases that this was the first form of relief they received. This is not really and truly a charity, for it too often starts them on their downward course. It reaches them to be dependent, it teaches them that things may be had for nothing. They go from the dispensary to some society that helps to pay the rent, they go from that to another society which helps them to get groceries, and end in being complete dependents. I submit that the moral disease in this case is worse than the physical, and that neither the moral nor the physical can be properly treated under existing conditions. The only possible relief. Dr. Washburn sold in closing, was through legislation.

A paper entitled "Some Thoughts on the Rational Treatment of Disease" was read by Dr. Chauncey P. Piggs. "Meltofine Without Drugs" was the subject of a paper read by Dr. Solomon S. Cohen, of Philadelphia, Other speakers were Henry L. Swain, of New-Haven, Conn., Dr. O. T. WASHINGTON MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION.

At the Hotel Majestic, Seventy-second-st. and Eighth-ave., a meeting will be held this afternoon of members of the George Washington Memorial Association and their friends. A committee of leading women, interested in the carrying out of General Washington's wish for the establishment of a National university of learning, has cent out invitations to guests to meet Mrs. Richardson president of the association, at 3 o'clock. Mrs president of the association, at 3 o'clock, Mrs. Calvin S. Briee, Mrs. W. A. Roebling, Mrs. Frank Northrop, Mrs. Henry H. Adams and Mrs. Henry R. Mallory are the members of this committee. A brief summary of the aim of the association will be given and plans for future work will be outlined after which a social hour will be spent "over the teacups."

This will be the first public meeting of the association which has converted in New-York. Board meetings have been held from time to time at the Holland House, but, as the organization has now received its regular charter—the document having been handed over to the president at Washington on September II—the members are determined to make renewed offorts to gain use interest of the general public in fulfilling the wishes of "the Father of His Country."

NEGRO TEACHERS IN BROOKLYN. It is said that an attempt to force negro school teachers out of the employ of the School Board is being made in Brooklyn. This will be done, friends of the colored teachers say, by having a severe xamination, which the instructors will have to pass or give up their places. An indignant Brook-lyn citizen, who does not believe that the white man has a right to all the justice in the world, said yesterday that if the Superintendent of Schools yesterday that if the Superintendent of Schools should start a systematic examination of all the Brooklyn school teachers, he would have to reject at least 25 pet cent, because, after instructors teach in the lower branches for a number of years they naturally fall behind in the higher ones, no matter how brilliant their record at the time of their appointment was.

The superintendent has a right to examine the teachers in any school whenever he pleases, he says, and he has given orders that the colored there in School No. 67 be given the benefit of the privilege.

evidences that the House of Bishops, after having postponed the subject indefinitely, may reconsider The division of Indiana into three dioceses, the southern being a missionary jurisdiction, raised a spirited debate in the House of Deputies. The Committee on New Dioceses divided, the majority reporting against the Southern Indiana missionary jurisidiction and the minority favoring it. The majority report was finally adopted. When consideration of the Constitution was resumed, Article VI, relating to the establishment of missionary districts, and Article II, relating to a bishop's exercise of his office outside of his diocese, were agreed to with amendments made by the

The morning session of the House of Bishops was important in bringing about the adoption of what is known as the Huntington amendment, looking toward church unity. The amendment authorizes bishops to take under their spiritual guidance con gregations which accept the essential tenets of the Church, although they do not strictly observe the ritual. The amendment was adopted with minor changes as part of the canons instead of the Constitution. The canons also were amended by requiring a year's time before ordination, instead of six months. The revision of the Constitution proand XI; also Articles VII and II as amended by the A resolution defining the boundaries of Bishop Graves's territory in China was adopted. An interesting debate occurred in the House of Deputies in the afternoon on a proposition by the Rev. Dr. Huntington, of New-York, to insert a preamble in the Constitution. The proposed pre amble began with a devout aspiration, and affirmed the faith of the Church in the Holy Scriptures and its adherence to the Apostles' Creed and the Nicene Creed. Dr. Huntington explained that the purpose was to introduce the name of the Almighty in the fundamental law of the Church and also to sum up in this preamble the spiritual order, as the preamble to the Constitution of the United States summed up the social order. The proposition was sharply opposed on the ground that it restricted and minimized the faith and doctrine of the Church. After a long debate the proposed pre-amble was tabled. Another proposition by Mr. Wilder, of Minnesota, for the words "In the name of God. Amen." as the preamble to the Constitu-tion, was adopted.

of God. Amen." as the preamble to the Constitution, was adopted.

Concurrence was given to the minor amendments made by the Bishops in the so-colled Huntington amendment, thus giving final approval to this important step toward Church unity.

A resolution was introduced and referred for final adjournment on October II. The Dean of Hereford, England, was present at the afternoon session, and was invited to a seat on the platform.

At the afternoon session of the Bishops final action was taken on the establishment of a Bishop in Brazil. There has been a division of sentiment as to whether this Bishop should be directly responsible to the Church in the United States or should be free from responsibility here. A compromise was finally adopted, by which the Church in Brazil will remain directly responsible to the authorities here until it has advanced to the point of these three a National Church for Brazil, independent of supervision by the United States, may be established.

The Bishops will hold a special communion ser-

be established.

The Bishops will hold a special communion service in St. John's Church to morrow morning, after which they will proceed to elect four missionary bishops, those for Brazil, North Dakota, Sacramento and Boisé.

STUDYING LABOR PROBLEMS.

MEMBERS OF THE INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION CON-SIDERING A PROGRAMME

Washington, Oct. 19.-Six of the seven m of the Committee on Procedure of the Industrial 'ommission were in session the greater part of today discussing the manner in which the work of the Commission is to be performed. The committee realizes that the task to be undertaken is of considerable magnitude, and much time will be re-quired before the subjects can be satisfactorily grouped and segregated in order that the inquiry may be conducted with the best possible results and without one branch overlapping into the other, As a hasis of consideration the committee has before it the syllabos of the report of the Royal Mixed English Industrial Commission, which sub-mitted its conclusions in a series of thirty docu-ments running over as many years. From this, as well as from the publications of other European nations of a similar character, will be determined, nations of a similar character, will be determined, in some measure at least, the method and grouping of the subjects to be inquired into.

Chairman Gardrer of the Procedure Committee thinks it will take some time to map out a programme showing just how the investigation shall be conducted and says its whole scope should be mastered and digested before a practical method of procedure can be adopted. Most of the committeemen believe that the Commission should not attempt to gather labor statistics from original sources, but that its work should be confined to collecting all information on labor matters existing in documentary form and which may be brought to its attention. All the labor organizations probably will be called on for suggestions in the line of jexislation likely to improve the condition of labor.

The Committee on Procedure to-day adopted the following resolution:

Resolved. That the officers and executive
